I am.

Maybe we have needs (that we're not aware of) that reveal themselves in an unconscious manner . . .
a lot of our gestures, actions,
desires, words might be motivated by an UNKNOWN
hidden inside us (invisible even to us) like, sometimes we do things that are confusing, erratic, frightening and we're not always sure WHY . . .
but often when we see other people acting like this strangely,
we criticize them for being insincere . . . immature . . .
maybe all they actually are is REAL . . .
like us.

The overtones are lost,
and what is left are conversations which, in their poverty,
cannot hide the lack of real contact.
We glide past each other. But why? Why—
We reach out toward the other.
In vain—because we have never dared to give ourselves.

DAG HAMMARSKJOLD: Markings

Among all these different people—
Greeks, independents, dormies,
freaks, football jocks,
minorities, and majorities—
I still find it hard to find myself.
I associate with a variety
but don't really find myself
in any category,
But that's O.K., too.
Because we are individuals.
Author Unknown

We have to know ourselves to be ourselves.
And to be ourselves might be the only real
CREATIVE ACT
we will ever live.

And people have been saying “don’t do this—don’t do that,
preserve, reject, turn away,
you’re too young . . .”
but seldom let us see what it means to be masculine . . .
feminine.
It’s not all perfume and body-building
and the right moves . . .
it’s not something we put on or build in or buy at the cosmetic counter.

It's something we are always discovering
in our lives . . . in others . . .
it's in our breath and sweat and anxieties
in our emotions and dreams
in our bodies
maybe slumbering, till we take the risk of asking
"Who am I?"
maybe,
if we keep laughing, hiding
it will slumber
forever.

Things are complicated.
Just when a person begins
to get some kind of idea of what he's like
inside, he has to start to try to find a place for himself in the world which surrounds him.
But sometimes he finds only a tremendous confusion of persons and things—a culture.

And everyone is forced to try to find some kind of a mode, a pattern, an idea which will pull together all of the frightening diversity of the world.
Everyone has to do this
Or else get lost in the mess
And hopelessly lost.

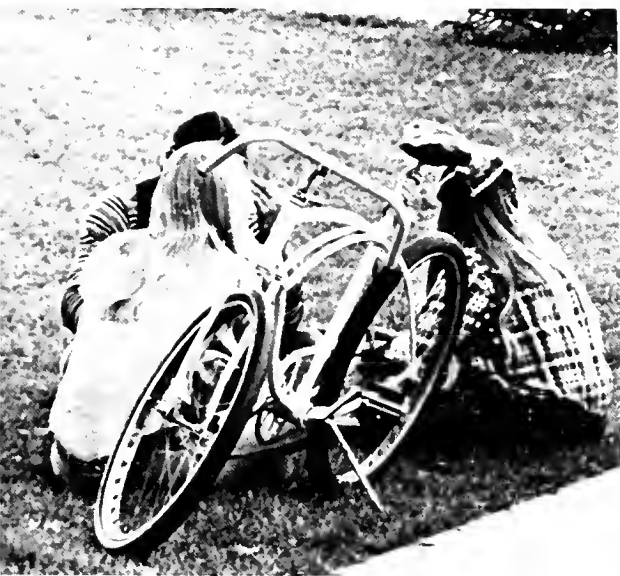

all around me
massive multitudes
living together
killing each other
some have said
we're so much the same
but not everyone looks like me
i question the answer
green turns blue turns
red turns yellow and green again
i'm just trying to survive
to be me
to love
and feel
and sleep warm tonight.

EVENTS

Little Brother-Sister Weekend

You never know what to expect!

A lap is a snug place to sit.

The invitation to "Step on Board the Friendship Train" was eagerly accepted by the swarms of little brothers and sisters drawn to Manchester College for the weekend of April 13, 1973. Friday night included open gym and a dance sponsored by Circle K. Saturday morning began with cartoons, games, and a picnic followed by two baseball games and a track meet. The evening events included a Marx Brothers film, a magician from Fort Wayne, and music followed by a swimming and bowling party.

May Day '73

The Toyland theme of Manchester's traditional May Day brought out the best of Manchester College talent in the three day celebration. Friday, May 4, brought brightly costumed contestants for the trike race, which was followed by a Tug-O-War and a Kangaroo Ball Race. Later Friday was the Spartan Spoketacular, picnic, and a Dance featuring "The Boss Players". Saturday was highlighted by the Coronation of Connie Breedlove as May Day Queen. The remainder of the Court was: Bobbie Shrock, runner-up; Barbara Federspiel, Senior Attendant; Corinne Donat, Junior Attendant; Cinda Lehman, Sophomore Attendant; Patricia Mercer, Freshman Attendant. More games and activities were enjoyed on Sunday.

"The Life and Times of Frederick Douglass: An American Slave" is the autobiography of a black man born in slavery, largely self-educated and self-liberated who rose against formidable odds to become a great leader, not only in the fight for the abolishment of slavery, but in the general cause of human rights.

The presentation covered the life of Douglass up to the point when he discovers the courage within himself to be free: "... I was nothing before — I was a man now." SEEK FREEDOM!

Camp Mack Day

Friday, September 21, was the day set for the traditional campus escape to the non-academic environment of Camp Mack. Community Council sponsored the event and offered boating, swimming, volleyball, football, and plenty of open space for enjoying nature. In the late afternoon, the band FJSE presented a concert interspersed with Manchester College talent. A bonfire ended the day with roasted marshmallows and hot dogs.

Delight!!

Breakaway

Breakaway 1973 was centered around a Sadie Hawkins Celebration with the women of Manchester catching a man or two for the big events. Ikenberry men were sold to the highest bidder Tuesday night, and Thursday was the Powder Puff football game. Dorm Parties brought the men and women together Friday, and Saturday was the big Sadie Hawkins Dance.

A spirited performance.

Fun for everyone.

Homecoming

Saturday climaxed a week of Homecoming celebrations. The campus was filled with alumni, visitors, and students milling about in search of old landmarks and familiar faces. The sunshiny afternoon entertained a soccer game, cross-country meet, and the Homecoming football game with the Queen Coronation.

In the twilight, after the excitement of the afternoon, a semi-formal dance was held in the Union with music supplied by Manchester's own Jazz Band.

The Imaginary Invalid

The first TRI ALPHA presentation of the year was part of the Homecoming Weekend. "The Imaginary Invalid" was a huge success on campus and was done with professional flair considering many of the cast members were first time performers.

Winter Festival

February brought lots of snow which helped the Winter Festival off to a rollicking start. Tuesday Manchester had a home game followed by entertainment in the Oaks. The rest of the week held hockey play-offs in the afternoon with activities every evening. Wednesday featured a Cake Walk. Thursday, pool expert Paul Gerni demonstrated his skill in the Union and Friday was highlighted by Skyp Gullette in concert in the Manchester Auditorium. Saturday's activities started early with Broom Hockey and Hockey games at the tennis courts, then a snow building contest and sled races later in the afternoon. A ski trip to Swiss Valley was offered in the evening with donuts and hot cocoa afterwards in the Oaks.

Year's Events

What is it like, day by day, at Manchester College? People, all year, have been giving of themselves, making Manchester the place it is. Familiar faces, common scenes, and everyday activities build college life and create a world that is uniquely a part of every individual here.

Softball

The Manchester College Women's Softball Team's season started right after spring break. They had four games scheduled, and played three of them, two of which were away. An informal game was played against the Peru Teens, a team of high school girls, for fun and practice.

Golf

Golf is one of the least talked about of the spring sports, but has had an excellent season under Coach Jack Jarrett.

Randy Olinger, all conference winner, and Gary Goshert, team captain, led the swinging Spartans to finish third in the Tri State Tournament, fifth in the Manchester College Golf Tournament, and third in the Hoosier-Buckeye-Central Conference.

Randy Olinger was voted the Most Valuable Player and at the Defiance meet, Gary Goshert set a new school record low at 68.

Three out of eight players were seniors and left after the '73 season. The '74 Spartans are a small and young team—Randy Carpenter, Steve Dimitt, Burnell Landes, Rick Buck, and John Campbell—have done a good job and are looking for new prospects and an even better season in 1974.

The baseball team was led this year by Steve Neff, who was Most Valuable Player and captain of the team and Greg Garner, leading hitter. Greg was voted all-conference for first base and Steve was voted all-conference third baseman. The team was a relatively young team with five freshmen and four sophomores. Regulars back from last year's squad include: Mark Miller, Jack Wood, Steve Neff, and Ron Caruthers, infielders; Sam Lower, Greg Garner, Tim Ryder, outfielders; and Dan Drotar and Brent Bucher, pitchers. Others filling out the roster include: James Colon, Hal Kerschensteiner, and Ray Lyttle, infielders; Mark Frey and Kurt Adams, outfielders; Jim Jenkins and Gary Weybright, pitchers. Graduating Steve Neff is the only player to be leaving the squad. Bad weather and too many errors caused an even season in conference games, but Coach Gratz looks forward to a better and stronger season next year.

Track

A strong start.

48 seconds, 49 . . .

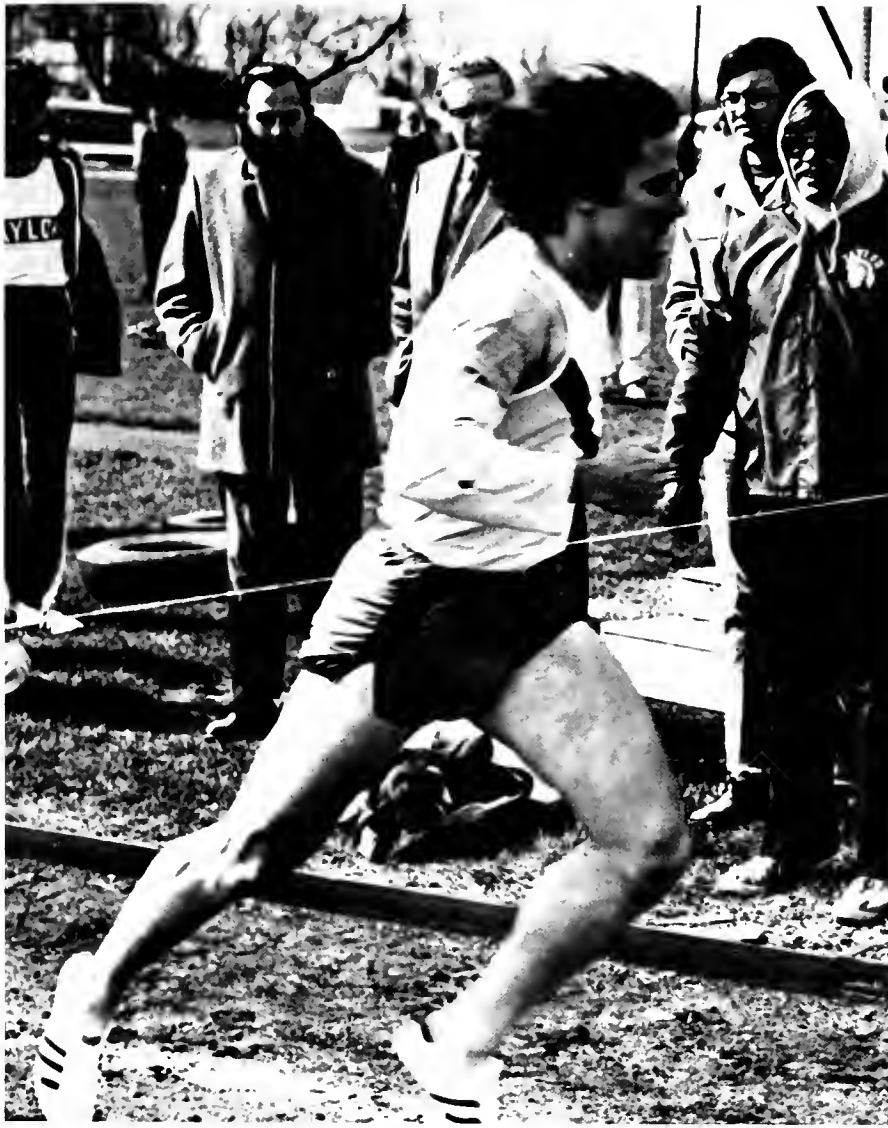

It's a long way down.

A mighty thrust!

Every tenth of a second counts.

Just one inch more . . .

Coach Meek was very pleased with the winning season (4-2) of the track team. The trackmen finished second in the conference as records were broken and all-conference selections were numerous. New records for the 1973 season are held by: Bill Kolezar in the 440 yd. dash with a time of 49.6 seconds; Scott Manges in the steeplechase with a time of 9:27.9; Timm Winterroth in the 440 intermediate hurdles with a time of 54.7; Russ Anderson in the discus with a throw of 142 ft. 1½ in. All-conference winners were: Bill Kolezar (440 mile relay), Scott Manges (steeplechase), Russ Anderson (discus), Fred Bullock (high jump), Timm Winterroth (440 hurdles, high hurdles, mile relay), Bill Denlinger (mile relay), Sam Dewey (mile relay). The mile relay team (Denlinger, Dewey, Koleszar, Winterroth) Scott Manges in the steeplechase and Timm Winterroth in the 440 I.H. made the All District 21 NAIA team. Paul Sibray, senior, was voted honorary captain of the team. Timm Winterroth was voted most valuable player. Only losing 4 lettermen in graduation the team expects a good season next year.

Confidence and agility.

Football

Manchester opened the '73 football season with a victory over Hope College. The rest of the year was marked by injuries to players in key positions which severely hampered the scoring power of the Spartans. Spirit was high throughout the year as evidenced by the outstanding performance of the freshman members of the team. The new skills and experience gained in the 1973 season have given the young Spartans confidence that next year they will have decisive advantages over their opponents.

Soccer

The Manchester College Soccer Team enjoyed a successful season in 1973. Pre-season hopes and expectations were substantiated as the Spartan players conquered 10 of their 11 opponents in producing the state's best won-lost season record, 10-1.

The direct result of this excellent season mark was an invitation to compete in the N.A.I.A. District 21 playoffs to determine the Indiana representative to the National Championships. The Spartans were assigned Goshen College on the opponent's field. Goshen proved the claim of being a "tournament team" by beating Manchester 7-1. The outcome of the game remains a mystery to the members of the squad. Goshen advanced on to the National Championship playoffs.

Though the season ended on a sour note, it cannot nullify the success of the year as evidenced by the final 10-2 mark.

Individual highlights of Manchester's Soccer Team included the selection of John Ingold and Dave Priser to compete in the senior all-star game. Other selections were the team's most valuable player, Eddie Shankster, who was also the state's leading scorer.

The season can never be forgotten. A young man from the Sudan, Archangelo Goz, contributed his spirit and enthusiasm in his own special way; a "peach" added to the team with his experience; tri-captains Dan Drotar, Myron Hostetler, and Lynn Longenecker provided leadership; starters demonstrated skill and desire; promising second and third teams gave it their all; invaluable assistants were Kent Arnett, Stan Noffsinger, John Mishler, and Jan Darnstaedt; and lastly and most importantly, contributing countless hours and expertise, was the head coach, Dr. Greg Hastings.

Cheerleaders

The Spartan Cheerleaders are led by Miss Weirick, as sponsor, and by Mona Overmeyer, a senior and the captain of five freshman girls who make up Manchester's cheering squad. Deb Hoffman, Pat Metzler, Becky Rondot, and Cindi Snider are all doing a terrific job this year supporting the Athletic Program. Dressed out in new uniforms and doing more mounts in their routine, MC cheerleaders generate spirit and enthusiasm all over campus.

Wrestling

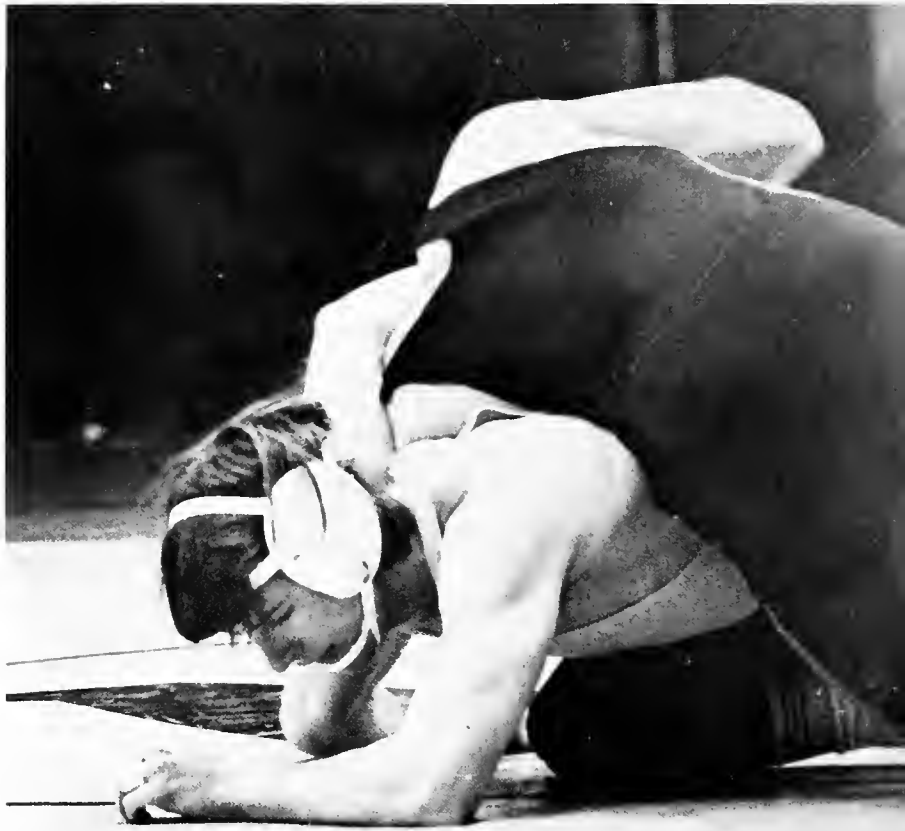

Manchester's wrestlers had a season of educational experiences and the Spartans profited from it. The team, composed mostly of freshmen, performed especially well considering their lack of experience and next year the Spartans look forward to a fine season because of the skills and confidence they've acquired.

Basketball

Manchester's basketball season ended with the record at a respectable 11-14. There were fantastic performances by many individual players, including senior John Warwick leading the H.B.C.C. both in scoring and rebounding with his average of 22.9 points a game. Rick Blastic contributed to the scoring power of the Spartans with a 15.4 average and Todd Howard boosted it still more with his 9.9 average. Both Howard and Blastic will be returning to play next season, but Warwick and another contributing senior, Ken Fishbaugh, will be graduating. The skill and experience the team has gained this year will mean that they can look forward to next year's campaign with enthusiasm and optimism.

Women's Volleyball

Manchester College had a strong volleyball team with offense being led by Nina Davis who had 51 points (76 with tournament play), Nancy Warner with 50 points, and freshman Jan Noel with 46 points. Carmie Thorton played her best volleyball in tournament competition and Kathy Phelps was the best all-round player with steady performances.

The defense was led by Nina Davis and Jane Jones. Depth was given to the team by four very capable substitutes; Fuick, Ward, Brown, and Edison. Fuick was an outstanding seventh woman and Marty Ward (who never competed in volleyball before her senior year) added needed strength as the eighth woman on the team.

Record for "B" team was 0 wins, 4 losses in the season. The record for "A" team was 8 wins and 3 losses with two of the three losses coming from Grace College and the other from Calvin College in Michigan. The wins were over Butler, Marian, Purdue, I.C.C., Anderson, Goshen, and Huntington.

Women's Basketball

Defense was led by seniors Marty Ward, who was the highest rebounder at 5'3", and Karen Crim, who had never played a game of basketball before this year. Offense was led by Nancy Warner who had three high games and 35% field goal average with a 58% free throw average. Carmie Thorton and Marty Ward were other high scorers with 63% free throw average and a 50% average, respectively. The team record was the poorest it's been for many years — 4 wins — 7 losses in season and 2 losses in tournament.

Spirit

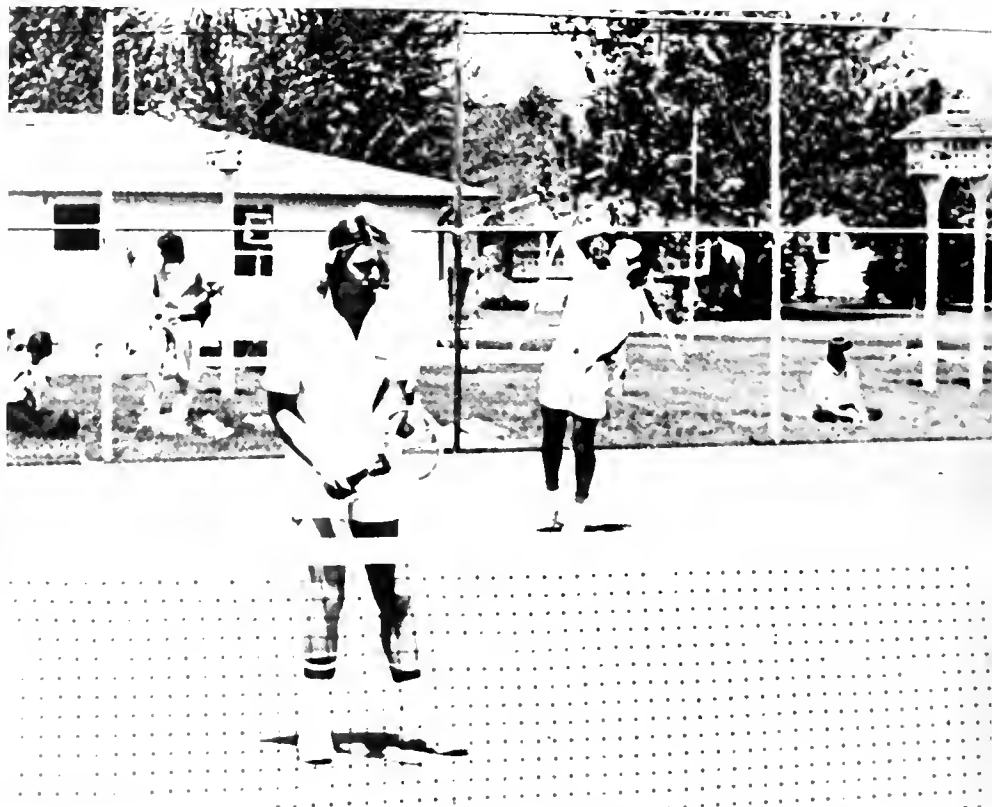

The 1973 Spartans were young, ambitious, and gave their very best in every sport, in every game, all year. Men and women in all sports generated enthusiasm and spirit which carried over the low spots and glorified the high. This year's experiences have taught the young Spartans much and next year they will be more than ready to make it the most spectacular year ever.

The Oak Leaves has accomplished much this year as a campus newspaper able to incorporate national and college issues together and ask questions relevant to the Manchester student. The Oak Leaves could be found in the campus Post Office box every Tuesday and the active reader could find intelligent editorials, original student compositions and debates on controversial issues.

AAFRO Club

AAFRO House: a place where Black students can go and socialize; a stronghold of Black culture on the Manchester campus; a place, too, for club meetings. Miss Eva Ferrell is the new director of the House, in addition to being the campus minorities counselor. Among the many plans the AAFRO Club has for the year is the formation of a Black Student Union, a state-wide organization for gifted and talented Blacks.

There was a good turnout at the awards dinner.

FIRST ROW, Left to Right: S. Grier, P. Dickens, S. Jones, P. Gilchrist, H. Beckwith. SECOND ROW: Y. Sutherland, J. Washington, P. Thirkles. THIRD ROW: E. Ferrell, J. White.

FOURTH ROW: R. Caruthers, S. Mitchell, R. Brown, J. Colon, J. Lambert, J. Mills, D. Taylor.

Dan Taylor accepts a coveted award from Fred Bulloch.

The club also sponsors numerous dances and gatherings, some for entertainment and others to help inform the Manchester students of the culture of the Black people. The AAFRO House and its unique culture room, stocked with Black historical objects, music, paintings, and sculptures, is open to anyone from the college community and it is hoped that more students will use the facilities to help bridge the gap between the different cultures.

I WATCHED YOU SLEEP

I watched you sleep and felt alone, Hating the darkness and afraid of the dawn,
Knowing if tomorrow came you'd rise
And give your love like a surgeon's knife,
Probing, slicing, exposing myself to me.

You slept without these heartless fears Peaceful, secure in a void of love,
dreaming your foolish fantasies,
Your plans unchanged and years from mine.

I left you sleeping warm in your world
Of dreams and slipped into the night,
Whistling old songs that had no words,
Hiding my face from dreams of my own,
And breathing the comfort loneliness brings.

Tim Steury

You are something peculiar always happening
like happiness
at the right time
like ripe wine
opening your dark eyes
from within—pouring outward for my soul to see.

Judy Shultz

Here I am, a young woman in a priest's tower,
Being read to by an old man waiting for rain.
Note his dried voice crisping over the pages,
And me dancing journeys over his windswept self.
The priest's tower, quiet and meaningless
To all but itself, repeating negative tales
Only important to the Sylvias of poetry.
Old man of tower building days,
The monsoons are flooding toward you.
Oh would that you could search for sun days
And fill the priesthood days with their Spots on pages of your imagination.

back there
with all your efforts
bent on a trouble-free philosophy
but you still suckle
naively at existentialism.
I'm sure you've been there
back there,
where Ms. E. Rigby remains ageless.
and smiling faces are scarred
with tears,
back there, the faded pink
splotches,
there,

Circle-K

Circle K offered many opportunities this year for persons wanting to get involved. It concentrated on five areas of concerns in the 1973-74 school year — those being: concerns for the environment, students, health, correctional institutions, and dependent/neglected persons. These concerns were met by many enthusiastic projects — a glass recycling center manned year round by Circle K and Kawanis members; a log-jam and river clean-up; week-end activities for the college campus; fund raising drives for charity organizations; projects at Whites Institute; visits to Timbercrest; and many other projects of involvement.

Last year MC Circle K was the most active club in the state, completing 43 projects. Circle K club is indeed a club of action.

WBKE

Radio at Manchester College has a history dating back to the mid-1940's. WBKE-AM, formerly WMZB, broadcasts solely to the campus of Manchester College. We program Top-40, Rock, or whatever. The music format is left pretty much up to the individual D.J.

WBKE is an officially certified member.

The WBKE staff is alert to its audience.

The station staff take time to enjoy their work.

Though it looks like a mess, the DJ's know what's happening.

WBKE keeps up with the world using the news-type machine.

WBKE-FM broadcasts on a frequency of 89.5 on the FM dial. The station serves a fifty-mile radius of the campus. We are an educational station programming Easy Listening, Rock, and Classical music. Along with our music programming, we carry many different programs from various educational programming services. Some of our locally produced programming include two fifteen minute Newscasts, all Spartan home basketball games, and home and away football games.

Both AM and FM stations are totally student managed and operated. The station is open to all members of the college and at present there are fifty students involved.

One hundred and thirty compositions were submitted by Manchester talent, but after rigorous review by Spectrum's editor, Connie Hicks, and the assistant editors, Christa Kolster and Dan Garver, about one fourth were accepted for publication. Since many members of the American Chemistry Society are pre-med majors, topics which provide valuable information on changes in the chemical and medical fields are covered in the meetings of the American Chemical Society. The club concentrates its efforts to the study of relevant and interesting topics in chemistry not dwelled upon in general course requirements.

Marine biology and environmental studies are but two of the relevant areas in which the Biology Club is involved. Meetings offer many learning opportunities by presenting interesting guest speaker, reports on faculty research, and special problems or independent study results.

Manchester College campus had a new addition available to its students this year. The Charles S. Morris Observatory was built and made ready for the observing of the comet Kohoutek in January. It is an excellent resource for further studies in astronomy.

The observatory is equipped with classroom and storage space along with the 10-inch Newtonian telescope.

Academic Deans

1973-74 was an important school year at Manchester College. The two years Associate of Arts programs were organized through the Dean's office. There was a re-evaluation of the Manchester Core Curricula and the Basic Studies Program with one day of entire campus participation and all-school discussion activities which were guided by the Academic Policies rather than the Deans. Dr. Deeter has continued work this year on various committees, including the Indiana Consortium of International Programs.

each person a unique personality
conforming each day
in a campus world
of professors
assignments
no cut classes—
run to class
don't be late
no smoking

at night
we go home
to different friends
in different rooms
each with a different music
and a different harmony
of love
of loneliness
or just thoughts—

to be ourselves.
